DJIL'OR , 100% natural refined peanut oil

In line with its impact investment strategy, LSF Capital worked with a dozen women's economic interest groups (EIGs) to collect groundnuts for its edible and cosmetic oil production and refining plant project.

The Salane Sedar E.I.G. in Djilor was the most successful in the collection of groundnuts, thanks in particular to good internal organisation and a culture of hard work and respect for promises made. LSF Capital has therefore decided to pay tribute to these brave women by naming the Fimela socio-industrial centre after Leopold Sedar SENGHOR, the first President of Senegal, whose birthplace is Djilor. The centre currently welcomes young people from the locality of Djilor who will also be trained in entrepreneurship in various sectors (agro-industry, trade, agriculture, etc.). Finally, part of the peanut oil produced and refined in the centre is named "DJIL'OR" (which means "the choice of gold" in the Serer language).

LSF Capital's impact investment model aims to show how to source the commodities in a locality, have them processed on a semi-industrial scale by the local population, and have the 100% natural, additive-free finished product consumed in every home in the locality.

Our storage and packaging centre in Djilor

The people of Djilor have made the Salane Sedar centre available to us. This centre, renovated by LSF Capital, will be used for the storage and packaging of the finished products of the Leopold Sedar SENGHOR socio-industrial site.

This initiative will enable us to be much closer to the people of Djilor, but also to the Salane Sedar EIG, with whom we have already established a relationship of trust.

Our poultry farm project in collaboration with Djilor

Within the framework of its poultry project that it is developing with the people of Djilor, LSF Capital has benefited (thanks to the generosity of the people of Djilor) from a 1,500 m² fenced plot of land that will house the hatchery and the farm.

As a reminder, the poultry farm will specialise in the industrial production of natural free-range roosters and eggs for consumption. LSF Capital plans to complete the project in May 2023. The incubators have already arrived in Djilor and will be installed during the month of April 2023, pending the reception of fertilised eggs from Europe and Latin America.

Partnership with tomato producers in the Niayes area

As part of its strategy to set up an industrial ecosystem around products from the land, LSF Capital is developing a project on behalf of a local private investor to create a Small and Medium Industry specialised in the production of concentrated tomato and natural tomato puree in Senegal.

LSF Capital's investment team met with the largest tomato producers in the Niayes area to set up a solid and sustainable partnership for the supply of agricultural commodities (tomato).

As with the refined peanut oil project, LSF Capital also intends to rely on local Senegalese expertise in setting up a concentrated tomato production line.
